

THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE STATEWIDE TAX-SUPPORTED
PUBLIC LIBRARY SYSTEM IN ALABAMA: 1901-1974

by

Shannon Diane White

Bachelor of Arts
Auburn University, 1993
Master's of Library and Information Science
University of South Carolina, 1997

Submitted in Partial Fulfillment of the Requirements for the Degree of Master of Arts in History
Completed in the Master's Program in Applied History
University of South Carolina

2000

Department of History
Director of Thesis

College of Library and Information Science
2nd Reader

Dean of the Graduate School

Acknowledgements

Without the continued help and support from my advisors this project would not have been possible. I would like to thank Dr. Robert Williams and Dr. Constance Schulz for their assistance in this endeavor. My family also helped in countless ways throughout my educational career, and the completion of this thesis is to their credit

Table of Contents

Introduction and Methodology	5
Chapter 1. The Beginning of the Free Public Library System in the United States and Alabama	10
Chapter 2. Alabama's Public Libraries Take Shape: Thomas McAdory Owen, Alabama Law, and Carnegie Grants	23
Chapter 3. The Public Library Service Division, Private Support, and the WPA in Alabama	40
Chapter 4. The Realization of Statewide Tax-Supported Public Library Service: Federal Funding and a State Agency	60
Summary and Conclusions	75
Bibliography	79

List of Tables

Table 1. Public Libraries in Alabama, 1885	15
Table 2. Total Number of Libraries in the Deep South, 1885-1886	16
Table 3. Alabama Cities Receiving Carnegie Grants for Public Libraries, 1901-1916	37
Table 4. Tax-Supported Alabama Public Libraries, 1923	42
Table 5. Non Tax-Supported Alabama Public Libraries, 1923	43
Table 6. Public Library Statistics for Alabama in 1939 and 1951	63
Table 7. Public Library Statistics for Alabama in 1944 and 1958	67