There was no library in Barnwell until W.P.A. started a reading room in 1937. Deposits were sent out from this unit and in October 1939 another reading room in Williston was started. This can hardly be called a library, but it is a beginning. There are 585 books in these two reading rooms. There are 417 borrowers and the circulation for 1939 was 3,660,
